

Dr. Cheryl Lowry is a co-founder of multiple organizations, including Tactical Mind Solutions and Holotropic Mind Solutions, focusing on mental health, wellness, and innovative therapies. She also co-founded Kinetic Medical Consultants, providing specialized medical services in aerospace, occupational, and operational medicine. Dr. Lowry has held significant roles at the University of Texas Medical Branch, contributing to polar medical operations and aerospace medicine residency programs. Her career in the U.S. Air Force includes leadership positions in medical operations and research, healthcare operations, and aerospace medicine. Dr. Lowry's educational background includes an MD from the Uniformed Services University, an MPH from Harvard University, and various certifications in aerospace and diving medicine. Her research interests span aerospace medicine, operational medicine, and neuroplasticity.